Fellowships and training opportunities for students

Fri, 2nd August, 2019

This is the second of the monthly webinar series by the Department of Biotechnology (DBT), with the aim to promote science and technology by reaching out to a larger audience. This includes students, young researchers and scientists from across the country, especially those from remote regions. The webinars will provide a great virtual opportunity to engage, stimulate interaction and apprise the scientific community of not only the latest schemes and programmes of the DBT, but also keep them abreast of current research trends by expert domain scientists.
